Instructional Methods

Assignments should require a balanced mix of reading, writing, listening and speaking. Class and small group discussions, cooperative learning exercises and other communicative activities should enhance short lectures about grammar. Vocabulary drills are recommended. If possible, the instructor should bring in guest speakers or show video clips from Spanish speaking countries. Students should read Spanish-language articles, short stories or short cultural readings and offer written responses about what they read. The goal of all learning activities should be meaningful and authentic communication. They should also be encouraged to use resource materials available at TC3 and utilize tutors in the Baker Center for Learning. Every effort should be made to provide authentic language use to the students. Spanish should be the only language used in the class.

Methods of Assessment/Evaluation

Method	% Course Grade
Written tests and quizzes	20-40%
Preparation and participation	10-20%
Written homework and listening comprehension exercises	10-20%
Oral presentations, skits, oral exams	10-20%
Compositions, journals	5-15%

Written tests should test students listening and reading comprehension as well as their written skills. The tests must require students to use the language in a meaningful context. (ie no multi-choice bubble sheet tests nor tests requiring strictly conjugating isolated verbs that do not require the student to know the meaning of what is written.) Tests could include questions requiring the student to select the correct verb from several options and then conjugate it, thereby showing that the student understands the content. Students should be required to write 4 one-page compositions covering the vocabulary and grammar from chapters 9-12.
